

Summary Report 2020 Chino Valley Christmas Count

Despite low water, species diversity remained within normal ranges, with a total of 86 species observed. As many observed, birds were not easily observed away from water sources, with the general count area being very dry. Total numbers were about 30% less than our 20 year average, however, this years count of 4596 is higher than the 2019 total individuals. A big miss, which is very attributable to our lack of water, is Killdeer.

Highlights were Vermillion Flycatcher, Anna's Hummingbird in 3 separate count areas and the numbers of Lillians (Eastern) Meadowlarks
